STEAMER NEARLY SUNK BY TONS OF ICE COAT

Here is a good shipping story to read on a hot day. It is reprinted from the San Francisco Chronicle of April 5 and reads:

"Top heavy and momentarily in danger of turning turtle, because of the hundreds of tons of ice which had accumulated on deck and mast, spar and hull, the steamer Northwestern of the Alaska Steamship Company, Capt. O'Brien, arrived in Juneau, Alaska, January 22 last.

"Sailors then were busy at work chopping a way to the pilot house, where Capt. O'Brien was imprisoned, and after succeeding in this task they wielded their axes to release many of the 70 passengers, including a number of ladies, who were ice-bound in their cabins.

"Another small steamer, the Georgian, from Sitka to Juneau, was caught in the same storm. The Georgian, however, found refuge in a small cove, where it required the united efforts of crew and passengers for a period of seven hours to strip the steamer of its coating of ice, which in places was three feet thick."

TO HONOR JUDGE PARSONS

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence] Hilo.—Judge Parsons, beloved by all, and one of the most popular men on the island, will be honored by having a dinner or luncheon given in his honor by the people of Hilo—all nationalities—in the near future. It was so decided at the meeting of the board of trade last Tuesday, though whether the affair will take the nature of a luncheon or dinner has not finally been decided.

The retiring Judge will be honored in more ways than one before he leaves Hilo, and reports have it that he will be the guest at several private functions besides the public ones.

The Rev. George Laughton spoke with the deepest respect for Judge Parsons' prominence in the community, and he was backed up by others who said that every race and nationality regretted the judge's departure from Hilo.

Sergeant Pilot George Guymener, one of the most daring members of the French flying corps, has been wounded.

Gov. Fielder of New Jersey signed a bill providing for the regulation of jitney busses.
